MILITARY OUTRAGES.

Such infamous invasions of law as have been perpetrated in the name of law and order at the Capital City during the past ten days or so have never to our knowledge been paralleled on the American continent in times of peace. The strikers, endeavoring to use force in preventing the railroad company from operating its trains, did not make a more flagrant breach of the law than the soldiers did when they entered other men's houses without the authority of a search warrant and took away arms which they found there. Every entry of that nature was a burglary; every seizure of that nature was a robbery. An old English Judge said: "A man's house is his castle. The rain from heaven may beat into it, the winds may blow through it, but the King of England dare not so much as lift its latchet." That is the law in this State to-day. Besides that, the Constitution of the United States declares that the right to have and to bear arms shall never be infringed upon. This law and this constitutional right is in force in Sacramento to-day, and has always been so since Sacramento became an American city. The soldiers who without a magistrate's warrant invaded other men's houses and seized other men's property were law-breakers, and those who directed them to do so were accessories. This is a very grave matter. The principles which are at stake are of greater value than half a dozen railroads. Somebody has been setting aside the Constitution and the civil law. President Cleveland did not do so. Indeed, until authorized by Congress to make war on Sacramento as an insurgent place he would not have authority to make that declaration of martial law of which so much has been written of late. We are not quite clear as to who is responsible for these outrages, but whoever directed these things to be done must be held to strict accountability. If Barry Baldwin be the guilty man, then he should be promptly removed from office. If that military martinet, Colonel Graham, be the culpable person, then he should be dismissed from the service in disgrace. In fact the whole management of affairs at Sacramento has been infamous. The shootings which have taken place seem to have been uncalled for military murders, and the display of force which took place at Judge Catlin's court on last Monday was a barefaced assault by the military on the supremacy of the civil law and its high officers. If this infamous blackguardism is tolerated then the republic of 1776 is already at an end and we are on the high road to imperialism.—San Francisco Town Talk.

INGERSOLL ON THE SITUATION

"Capital has always claimed, and still claims, the right to combine. Manufacturers meet and determine prices, even in spite of the great law of supply and demand. Have the laborers the same right to consult and combine? The rich meet in the bank, the club house or parlor. Workingmen when they combine, gather in the street. All the organized forces of society are against them. Capital has the army and the navy, judicial and executive departments. When the rich combine it is for the purpose of exchanging ideas. When the poor combine it is a conspiracy. If they act in concert, if they really do something, it is a mob. If they defend themselves it is treason. How is it that the rich control the departments of the government? In this country the political power is equally divided among men. There are certainly more poor than there are rich. Why should the rich control? Why should not the laborers combine for the purpose of controlling the executive, legislative and judicial departments? Will they ever find how powerful they are? In every country there is a satisfied class—too satisfied to care. The satisfied class asks no questions and answers none. They believe the world is as it should be. All reformers are simply disturbers of the peace. When they talk low they should not be listened to; when they talk loud they should be suppressed.

"The truth is to-day what it always will be—those who feel are the only oppressed, from the hungry, from the ragged, from the trodden down, from the unfortunate, from the men who despair and from the women who weep. There are times when a rag becomes a flag under which the noblest and bravest battle for the right. "It is impossible for a man with a good heart to be satisfied with the world as it now is. No one can truly enjoy what he earns—what he knows to be his own—knowing that millions of his fellow men are in misery and want. When we think of the famished we feel that it is almost heartless to eat. To meet the ragged and shivering and warm—one feels as though his heart was as cold as their bodies."

DONT GET MAD.

Instead of going to bed at four o'clock every afternoon, out of respect to President Cleveland's proclamation ordering Montanians to flock together separately, there are some inclined to strike against this royal manifesto and sit up and play poker against the peace and dignity of the United States. This is all wrong. Grover knows we are all tired out here—awfully tired—letting us off at four o'clock is really doing us a favor.

While we cannot obey the injunction to "repair to our several and respective homes," because none of us have more than one home and some of us do our repairing at free lunch counters, nevertheless we can put in our time from four o'clock until next morning appreciating the fact that we are not all presidents, and don't have to worry over Montana like poor Mr. Cleveland, who suffers from chronic toothache caused by sitting up nights and chewing the rag with his cabinet.—Montana Mining News.

When you ride on the cars you may be curious to know how fast you are going. Step out on the platform and watch the track intently till you can distinguish when one rail joins another. Then count the joints as you go by, and as many as you pass in twenty one seconds is the number of miles an hour the train is going. If there is a double track, you need only watch one of the opposite rails out of the window and count the joints.
